

Region 1: High Plains to Cross Timbers

Texas is quickly growing to become a state containing a threatening level of wildfires every year. With over 95 percent of these wildfires being human-caused, it's a sure fact that something must be done. This map is a representation of the major hot spots across northern Texas and their respective counties color coded by cause. The goal of this map is to present easily interpretable information for the use of citizens and local authorities to help familiarize them with the most likely perpetrator of human-caused wildfires in their area.
